To Whom It May Concern:

The New York City Math Team is looking for extraordinary students to join us for the 2016-2017 school year. It would be beneficial if the students have prior experience in contest problems and math competitions, but not a necessity. More than anything, we are looking for students who are strong in problem solving. If you feel that the student who is asking you for the recommendation fits those criteria, then we would like you to recommend them for our team.
